Lahore, July 2024

In order to involve the young people more in the Liturgy and in the accompaniment of the songs, we found ourselves in the need to write the music of these religious songs.

We make our work available to all, in the hope that it will return to the greater glory of God.

The work was done in the spare time, and is far from finished. Other more complete and correct editions will probably follow.

Western musical writing imposed the use of Roman Urdu (left to right writing). In writing the melody we have tried to be as faithful as possible to the songs as they are normally sung in the parishes, but we are aware that some nuances, some melisms typical of South Asian music are impossible to reproduce in Western musical notation. In harmonization we followed the criterion of simplicity, but without falling into banality. We have preferred a tonal harmonization even where the singing structure is typically modal. The choice is motivated by the fact of giving greater strength to the accompaniment, since in many songs it is also possible to use the guitar or other non-traditional instruments.

The musical score is written on a single staff in 4/4 time. It consists of eight lines of music, each starting with a measure number. The notes are primarily quarter and eighth notes, with some half notes. Chord markings (A-, F, D-, E) are placed above the staff to indicate the harmonic structure. The key signature has one sharp (F#), and the time signature is 4/4. The piece concludes with a double bar line at the end of the eighth line.

The image shows a single line of musical notation on a five-line staff. The notation begins with a treble clef and a key signature of one flat (Bb). The melody consists of a series of eighth and sixteenth notes, with some groups of notes beamed together. Above the staff, there are ten chord symbols: F, C, G-, C, B♭, C, F, B♭, C, F, B♭, C. The notes generally follow the chord symbols, with some chromatic movement. The piece ends with a double bar line.
